Being prepared for an unexpected problem with your infusion set or pump is very important. By having the necessary insulin pump supplies with you at all times you can quickly fix the problem and prevent an emergency.

Keeping your supplies organized in a case is helpful for you or a loved one to have all the supplies you need when you need them.

Your kit should include the following:

- A rapid acting source of glucose such as glucose tablets
- Glucagon Emergency Kit
- BG monitor and supplies
- Rapid acting insulin
- Insulin syringes
- Infusion sets
- Cartridge/reservoir/pod
- Ketone testing strips
- Extra batteries for pump and BG monitor
- Alcohol wipes/skin prep
- Emergency contact phone numbers of family and health care provider
- A list of your current pump settings

We encourage you to wear a medical identification indicating you have diabetes

Check your supplies frequently to make sure your kit is complete and the supplies are not expired.
